

The Sunday Roast

Wolfs roast cancelled

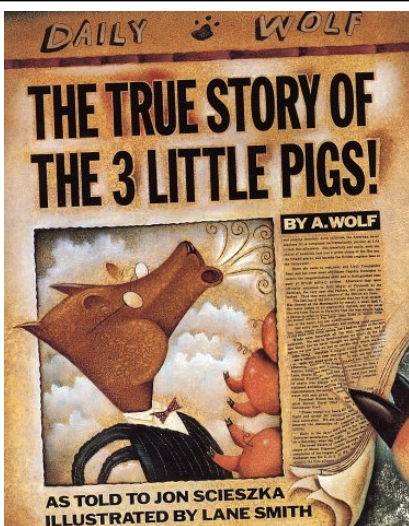

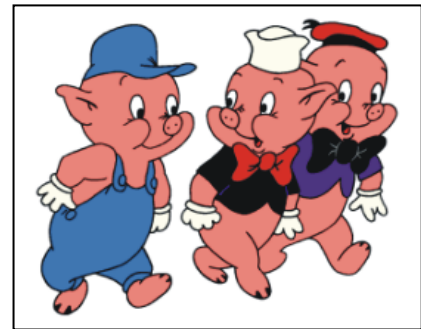

Wolfs Christmas dinner ruined!

A few days ago, B.B Wolf was sent to New Pork Prison for the attempt of murder of three little, innocent, pigs. He was sentenced to life in jail for his devious calculated plan to kill the superstars, The Bacon Girls, otherwise known as Penny, Peppa and Porky pie. The B.B wolf has to share a room with puss in boots evil brother witch he isn't very happy about it he would prefer to share a room with his brother who also tried to kill the three little pigs.

Our sources tell us that penny the pig had just moved in to her new house when someone that does not want to be named saw the wolf walking about New Pork City he found out where the first little pig (penny) lived. So B.B wolf went to try blow her house down and grumpy heard the wolf say "little pig little pig let me come in!" the pig replied no not on the hairs of my chin chin so the wolf huffed and puffed and blow penny's house down so she ran to her sisters house.

So they ran to there sisters and the wolf bumped into a apple tree and all the apples fell on him giving the pigs more time to run and they hid under the bed and once again the wolf said little pigs little pigs let me in. the pigs cried not on the hairs of our chimney chin chins and the wolf reaped his catchphrase but he couldn't blow the house it was to strong so he jumped on top of the house and climbed down the chimney but the little pigs but a bucket of boiling hot water at the bottom so he burnt his bottom

So both of them were in the luxury cabin made out of sticks and the wolf came alone and shouted little pigs little pigs let me come in over wise I will blow your house down but the little pigs shouted no not the hairs of our chimney chin chins you will never blow our house down so the wolf huffed and puffed and blow there houses down so they ran to there over sisters house the smart one Peppa.

Wolf in prison

Yesterday the big bad wolf escaped from jail little red riding hood saw him walking around New Pork forest as the three little pigs were building there houses the first little pig penny was building her house out of straw whilst playing the flute the second little pig porky pie the pig was building his cabin whilst playing the violin The third little Peppa was building his mansion out of bricks but Peppa was to busy to play music.

The police said he would be charged with a court sentence this Friday. The little pigs are now safely at home all in three unique brick houses. We would like to inform you to build your house out of bricks or stones. The village is begin guarded by wood cutters.
